Satellite Networking Event CGU-US-UMA

Campus of International Excellence 'Andalucia Tech'

(University of Malaga, Spain – 19th & 20th September 2023)

The University of Malaga (UMA) and the University of Seville (US) share the Campus of International Excellence "Andalucia Tech", awarded in 2015 by the Spanish Ministry of Education and Science.

Within the "Andalucia Tech" a number of initiatives such as joint bachelor and master degrees, joint research and innovation projects, have been developed.

Participants of the XXIX General Assembly of the Compostela Group of Universities shall be welcome to the Satellite Networking Event, on 19th-20th September 2023, at the city of Malaga (Spain).

Main objectives:

- ✓ To create a forum to discuss in an open and operational atmosphere some of the key challenges that Universities face at the present moment: sustainability (with a very comprehensive and overarching understanding of the term), digital transformation and entrepreneurship and employability.
- ✓ To showcase, share and discuss strategic management decisions and actions currently taken at partner universities that could serve as examples of good practice.
- ✓ To analyse the potential impact that university networks and joint/collaborative initiatives have or could/should have in the development of these three areas.
